

Stompin' Tom Connors wrote two autobiographies – both of them were top selling books in Canada.

Tom's first book: "Before The Fame" talks about his unhappy childhood, being taken away from his Mother and his hard life on the road.

His second book: "The Connors Tone" talks about the early part of Tom's career... the performances, the lyrics, the laughter and everything else that came after!

Tom took a lot of harsh criticism when he refused to leave Canada; he wanted to stay in his own country and write songs about the cities, the towns and the people!

For the record – Tom did not dislike Americans. Some of his favorite singers and songwriters came from over in America .

Tom was upset by all of the great Canadian artists who were leaving Canada behind to go live over in the U.S.A.

His song: "Believe In Your Country" was a direct message to these artists.
